Future of Rural Healthcare: Vermont Vision 2030

Eric K. Shell, CPA, MBA, Chairman, Stroudwater Associates

Alena Berube, Director of Health Systems Policy, GMCB, explained that per Act 159 of 2020, the Board is tasked with working with Vermont hospitals to ensure there is sustainability as the State makes the shift from fee for service to value-based care. With the support from Vermont Program for Quality in Health Care (VPQHC) and the Office of Rural Health, Eric Shell was invited to speak with the Board. Susan Barrett introduced Eric Shell and his professional background.

Eric Shell presented a national perspective of high insurance premiums, growth of high deductible plans, declining in-patient volume, accelerating growth in technology, increased provider competition, declining out-patient volume, declining Medicare margins, the Center for Medicare and Medicaid (CMMI)'s new strategy, and the considerations from the June 2020 MedPAC Annual Report. Eric Shell discussed the implications of the national trends on value-based payment systems, the future hospital financial value equation, the challenges to overcome, an outline of payment transition, and how the transition framework can be shifted. Eric Shell presented a high-level summary of the transformational efforts in Vermont, the providers in Vermont, and the payers in Vermont, and discussed his observations and recommendations for the State. The presentation can be seen here on the GMCB website. The Board Members asked questions and had a discussion with Eric Shell regarding service network rationalization, centralized decision making, budget-based payments, global budgets, Medicare hospital designations, Vermonters receiving care out of state, the long timeline of reform, an effective level of value-based payments, the Medicaid cost shift, and how to ensure the proper amount of patient care in a fixed-payment system.
