Comment: I have worked at Maitri for 6 years as a nurse. Our practitioners and staff have doubled in that time and our patient load has grown exponentially. The community counts on us to provide individualized, quality health care through pregnancy, postpartum and well women care as well as managing complex gynecological issues. We have witnessed another ob/gyn practice close and get swallowed up by UVM as they are getting twice or more the amount of reimbursement than we do for the same thing. Except patients prefer to come to us because of our quality care we provide. It would be devastating to see the same thing happen to our practice and UVM would not be able to handle the increase of our patient load on their system. We average 60 births per month with our 7 delivering providers and see roughly 120 patients in office daily. We need support more than the hospital does to keep our doors open and providing care to our community.
