Comment: It seems inconceivable that any business can subsist- say nothing about expand to meet growing needs - on little to no budget increase. (Just think of your own personal expenses). Factor inflation, commodities expenses, employee costs and benefits, etc. Our rural hospital is indispensable providing health care services, regardless of ability to pay, for all. Would anyone be able to replace just one of those services - womens' health, cardiac care, diagnostic imaging? With such a minimalist budget restriction, cuts would be foreseeable. Please reconsider the budgetary constraints you propose!
